

THE STATE FAIR.

COLONEL R. J. POWELL TALKS ABOUT THE FAIR.

The Entire Matter in the Hands of the Premium Committee—Macon Will Insist That the Contract Be Carried Out.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Treasurer R. J. Powell, of the Georgia State Agricultural Society, was one of those who signed the agreement entered into last Saturday night between the city of Macon and the society in reference to the claim of the society against the city. Before leaving this afternoon for his home in Barnsville, Treasurer Powell was interviewed by THE CONSTITUTION.

THE CONSTITUTION asked Treasurer Powell why the premium committee had been called to meet in Atlanta this week to consider propositions from other cities. He replied that he had received no notification of such meeting, but he could not see why it would not be perfectly proper.

"Then Saturday's conference did not settle matters?" said the reporter.

"Oh, no," replied Mr. Powell, "we are simply to recommend certain adjustments. I cannot say how these will be received. If they are accepted, everything is all right, but, of course, they could be rejected."

"What do you think of the situation?" Colonel Powell was asked.

"I think our prospects for holding a fair have been very much injured. I am satisfied now that the society has lost by these operations, and I don't see what we can do. It is evident that we can't lose much more time."

Mr. Powell seemed to be in a corner of Macon as the place for the fair. He does not favor her, however, with such troubles as have existed for some time past. It cannot either be put down as certain that Mr. Powell favors the holding of a fair this year after the long delay.

But, of course, if affairs are adjusted it must be held.

The situation at present is that the entire matter, so far as the society is concerned, is in the hands of the premium committee. They are to meet in Atlanta to consider propositions from different cities. This committee is composed of only two Maconites, Secretary Jenson and Captain R. E. Park, and others as follows: President Waddell, of Atlanta; Treasurer Powell, of Barnsville; Mr. Pierce, of Dalton; Dr. Hape, of Atlanta, and Mr. George H. Jones, of Norcross. Macon would possibly get two of these votes and probably no more.

But Macon does not consider herself a candidate, though it is evident she is so considered by the society.

In other words, the proffered settlement of the differences is to be brought before the premium committee in the light of a bid for the fair, just as the bids of other cities will be considered.

This, then, is how the recommendations are to be dealt with. There is no doubt about this.

But Macon will insist that the adjustment offers in no way a bid, and she will take legal steps to prevent the fair being removed should the society refuse to accept the proposed adjustment.

Macon has a twenty years' contract with the society which the society has not the privilege or right to break at will.

THAT AFFIDAVIT FROM MITCHELL.

What United States Officials Say About the Charges Against Them.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—THE CONSTITUTION yesterday published an affidavit from Mitchell county reflecting on United States Deputy Marshals C. A. Avant and W. L. Poore, and United States Commissioner O. L. Arwolson, in which they were charged with using their offices to shield guilty parties.

Today the officers answered in the affidavit said to THE CONSTITUTION that there is not a word of truth in the affidavit and the whole business, and that it grew out of a difficulty which occurred in Mitchell county between United States Deputy Marshals Avant and Poore and a crowd of moonshiners who attacked him on the highway some time ago. Mr. Poore has been the instrument of breaking up, to a large extent, the illicit distilling practices which have been in operation in Mitchell county for a long time. He has been captured in fact twenty-eight men have been captured through his instrumentality, and convicted of illicit distilling, most of them pleading guilty. Of course when affairs are in a condition of this kind the man who breaks up the business falls into disrepute among the guilty parties, and every effort is made to injure him. An attempt was made to injure the officers in question by an affidavit published in the Camilla Clarion, charging them with arresting innocent parties, and this time it is for shielding guilty parties.

The officers say that the true state of affairs is, that a certain party of men tried to bribe Bryan, the man who made the affidavit, to testify against certain parties and he refused to do so, saying that the charges were false. Now he thinks he can injure the men who caused his arrest and arrest the very thing which once before he refused to do because it was untrue.

The gentlemen charged are excellent officers, and perhaps the only ones towards breaking up illicit distilling in Georgia than any others, and it is not probable that they would be guilty of any such actions as they are charged with.

It is the purpose of the district attorney to fully inform himself in regard to the matter, and a suit is to its very bottom.

SPARKS AT THE HELM.

The Projector of the Georgia Southern Is Re-Elected President.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—THE CONSTITUTION stated yesterday that the stockholders of the Macon Construction Company had held a meeting on Saturday and elected directors, the names of whom were published. Today the directors met and elected the following officers: President, W. B. Sparks; vice president, H. J. Lamar, Sr.; secretary and treasurer, W. B. Sparks.

It was thought for some time that a combination might be made to defeat Sparks for re-election, as there was some rumbling of discontent, but the stockholders promptly re-elected him director and today re-elected him president. This was right and proper. Who else could have been elected and take up the great work and conduct it any more successfully than President W. B. Sparks?

Macon and Savannah.

The stockholders of the Macon and Savannah Construction Company met today and elected the following officers and directors: President, H. J. Lamar, Sr.; vice president, W. B. Sparks; directors—J. R. Jones, Macon; W. B. Sparks, Savannah; J. R. Jones, Savannah; W. L. Strong, New York; S. Stein, New York.

The Macon and Atlantic road was commenced by the Macon and Savannah Construction Company.

The stockholders of both of the above named construction companies appear very sanguine today, and are confident that the entire Georgia Southern system will soon be out of the soup.

WILL IT BE HILL?

Strong Endorsements of the Macon Gentleman for the Judgeship.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Will Mr. Walter B. Hill be appointed judge of the new appellate United States courts? There are certainly some very strong influences pulling for him. The appointment rests with President Harrison.

Some Macon gentlemen and others are working hard in the interest of Hon. Walter B. Hill. Among them are Postmaster R. B. Locke and United States Marshal Corbett.

The gentlemen have just returned from Washington, where they went to talk the matter over with the president. They called on

THE MISSIONARY WORK.

THAT HAS BEEN DONE BY THE WOMAN'S MISSIONARY SOCIETY.

The Close of the Present Session at Washington—Election of Officers—Trinity's Good Work.

WASHINGTON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—The north Georgia conference of the Women's Missionary Society which has been in session here since Friday morning last, will tonight close one of the most successful meetings since its organization. Over 100 delegates are in attendance, and the work throughout the various auxiliaries is represented by some of the noblest and foremost women of Georgia.

It is now thirteen years since the woman's missionary work of the Methodist Episcopal church South was begun through its first organization, the North Georgia conference. The work now embraces 288 adult and juvenile auxiliaries, the total membership of which is 5,447. They cover the whole north Georgia field from Dalton down to Augusta.

The last membership in any society is that of Trinity church, Atlanta. This noble society is constantly giving largely to the mission cause, especially to the China work where it has direct representation in the person of that earnest consecrated Christian woman, Miss Laura Haygood.

At the close of the morning session today the election of officers for the ensuing year took place under the following result:

President—Mrs. W. P. Lovejoy.
Vice President—Mrs. Mary Bonnell.
Corresponding Secretary—Mrs. Morgan Caloway.
Recording Secretary—Miss Mollie Stevens.
Treasurer—Mrs. Joyce Ficklen.
Superintendent Juvenile Work—Miss Tudie Stone.

Washington has opened her hearts and homes to the ladies, and is entertaining them royally with a hospitality that is noted the state over. The ladies liberally have provided for the guests, and the captured city has surrendered graciously.

The next place of meeting will be Elberton.

PHYTHIAS IN COLUMBUS.

Rome Knights Exemplify the Highest K. of P. Degree There.

ROME, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—A committee of the Riverside lodge of the Knights of Pythias, consisting of J. W. Davis, grand instructor of Georgia; C. W. Underwood, chancellor of Georgia; James D. Gwaltney, ex-acting chancellor; and Sam D. Powers and Philip G. Bird, editor of the Hustler, have been giving the amplified third in Columbus.

A finer body of working knights cannot be found in the state.

A lodge of ninety-three members was organized in Columbus.

The Rome delegation speak in the highest terms of the hospitality of the Columbus knights.

The amplified degree, which was exemplified, is the highest Pythian degree.

STRUCK BY A TRAIN.

The Dead Body of a Negro Found Near Lithonia.

LITHONIA, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—On yesterday morning about 3 o'clock a negro named Thomas Juhan was picked up by a Georgia railroad train about two miles from town and brought here. He was lying on his back, his head broken, and his body covered with blood. He died of the wound about 8 o'clock last night.

Coroner R. E. Jones summoned a jury and held an inquest today, the investigation lasting for several hours. A verdict was rendered giving it as the opinion of the jury that the wound which caused Juhan's death was inflicted by the night express on the Georgia railroad, which passes going south about midnight.

This verdict was a surprise to many, as foul play is suspected. The dead negro was to have been married on yesterday.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE.

They Walk Out of Griffin Jail and Are Yet Out.

GRiffin, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Today two prisoners that were confined to jail made their escape. One of them, James Moore, who was held under an indictment from the grand jury for murder, and Andrew King, who was under an indictment for highway robbery.

It seems that their escape is due to the negligence of the colored janitor, Amer Day, who left the feed door open at the jail, while he went to close the courthouse windows to keep the rain out. The prisoners took advantage of this and opened the hatch that closes the main entrance, thus effecting their escape.

There was another prisoner confined in the cell, who it is said, refused to escape. Officers are on the track of those who got away, and it is thought they will be captured.

An Incendiary Fire.

LEXINGTON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—On Saturday the large barn and contents of Mark E. Young, in this place, were burned to the ground. A large lot of hay, fodder, etc., was consumed. Fortunately his horses and mules were left in the lot that night. Mr. Young has no definite knowledge of who set the barn on fire, but he has suspicions. Before many days he will, he thinks, have sufficient evidence to convict the party.

Like George Washington.

SAVANNAH, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—A Savannah colored woman went to McIntosh today. While there Tom Tarver shot and killed Isaac Anderson with a Winchester rifle. Both men lived at McIntosh, and had been chatting with Savannah friends prior to the shooting, for which there appears to have been no provocation.

The Negroes Whom Dr. Clayton Shot.

ROME, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—The two negroes shot by Dr. Clayton yesterday morning near Rome are doing very well. Handy Watkins, the young man, was brought to Rome, and is now in a hospital. Henry Moore, however, is still in a precarious condition. One ball lodged in his brain, and has not yet been extracted. A telegram was sent to the sheriff at Cartersville, but no arrest has been reported.

Cut to Pieces.

ROME, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—A cutting scene occurred yesterday at the East Rome dummy near the iron furnace. Charlie Fielder and Sam Ware, both colored, fell out about a woman and knives were used and Sam Ware is reported as being badly hurt, being out all to pieces.

Accidentally Shot.

AMERICUS, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Dr. W. C. Russell, a prominent young druggist, happened to rather seriously accident today. While cleaning a pistol it was accidentally discharged, the ball lodging in the fleshy part of the leg. The wound, while painful, is not considered dangerous.

A Drunken Temperance Lecturer.

VALDOSTA, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—A female temperance lecturer visited Valdosta last week. She published a pamphlet setting forth the horrible effects of intemperance, and exemplified them in person by getting on a rousing drunk.

On Trial for Life.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Lennie Long, colored, is on trial for the murder of her husband.

Judge Speer's Decision.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Today Judge Speer, of the United States court, refused to allow the reinstatement of the $700,000 damage suit of Henry W. Macon. Telegraph.

MR. W. M. SHEARER DEAD.

One of the Oldest Residents of Atlanta Passes Away.

Mr. Shearer, one of the oldest and best known residents of Atlanta, died at his home, 346 Luckie street, at 12:05 o'clock this morning.

Nearly half a year ago Mr. Shearer contracted Bright's disease, and the nature of the malady became such as to baffle all medical skill.

Four generations live to mourn his loss, and his death will be a source of deepest sorrow to his many friends in Atlanta.

He leaves a wife and an only son, Mr. William Charles Shearer, the proprietor of the Shearer machine works. For many years he had been a member of St. Philip's Episcopal church, and his life was that of a sincere Christian.

According to his wishes his body will be kept until Sunday. The funeral services will be conducted by the Masons, the Atlanta lodge, of which he was a prominent member.

Mr. Shearer was married twenty-four years ago in Carlisle, on the borders of Scotland. Here he learned the trade of carriage and spring making, which proved such a valuable one to him afterwards.

He married Miss Emma Hill, of Devise, Wilshire, England, who survives him. Nine years later he came to America. In Philadelphia he remained for a short while, and the early part of the fifties found Atlanta his home.

At the Georgia railroad shops he did most efficient work until after the war. At that time he was ordered out of the city by Sherman and took up his residence at Columbus, O.

The war ended he returned to his home here, at 135 Decatur street, one of the very few left standing by Sherman. At this place he lived until about five years ago, when he moved to his late residence on Luckie street.

During these years he practiced his trade as a locomotive spring maker for the Georgia road. Some time ago he secreted a patent on a pump which was pronounced a piece of work as valuable as it was ingenious.

THE CONSTITUTION not long ago published a report to the effect that Mr. Shearer had fallen heir to $20,000, left him by an Australian uncle. The matter is still in contest. The majority of the wealth is in specie lying in the bank of England.

MISS LUCY ORME DEAD.

After a Brief Illness She Dies at West Point.

Miss Lucy Orme died Sunday afternoon at West Point. She was a young lady with many and dear close friends, whose grief at her death is deep and strong. They knew her as she was, a noble-spirited Christian with God-given qualities, and love and admiration for her were but natural. She was a sister of Mr. Joe Orme, of this city, and has a large circle of friends in Atlanta to whom the news of her death will bring the deepest grief and sorrow.

Only a short time ago, happy and light-hearted, she went with a number of friends on a fishing party on the Chattahoochee river. On her return she was taken very ill, and almost before those around her could realize it, and before her many friends at a distance could hear of her sickness, comes the announcement of her death. The sorrowing relatives have the sympathy of all in their deep bereavement.

The funeral services will take place at 9:30 o'clock this morning from St. Philip's church. The interment will be at Oakland.

Funeral of Mrs. James E. Butler.

The funeral services of Mrs. James E. Butler will be conducted at the residence of her mother, No. 371 East Fair street, at 4 o'clock this afternoon. Dr. Henry McDonald and Dr. Virgil Norcross officiating. The closing exercises of the institute began tonight and end Tuesday night. Hon. John W. Akin, of Cartersville, Ga., is to deliver the literary address Tuesday night, and the reputation of this gifted and talented young lawyer of the Cartersville bar promises something rare and interesting. Hon. W. B. Rankin will deliver diplomas to the graduating class.

The Schools of Columbus.

COLUMBUS, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—The closing exercises of the public schools commenced today with Rose Hill, and will continue the remainder of the week.

In An Appetite

There is nothing for which we recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla with greater confidence than for loss of appetite, indigestion, sick headache and other troubles of dyspeptic nature. In the most natural way this medicine gently tones the stomach, assists digestion, and makes one feel hungry.

It is a tonic in delicate health, or very dainty and delicate at meals, and is recommended by Hood's Sarsaparilla a few days, find themselves going for and eating the plainest food with unaltered relish and satisfaction. Try it.

Liver Difficulty.

"I have been suffering more or less with dyspepsia and liver difficulty for a long time. Being handed one of Hood's Sarsaparilla pamphlets, concluded to try Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Pills, and now in better health than I have been for twenty years. I can safely recommend the medicine." G. G. JAMES, Winona, Minn.

DEATH OF MR. J. A. B. STEWART.

A Well-Known Merchant of Covington Passes Away.

COVINGTON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Mr. J. A. B. Stewart, one of our most prominent citizens, died here suddenly of heart failure yesterday. He had not been well for several days, but was up and walking about the house a few minutes before his death. He was the senior member of the mercantile firm of J. A. B. Stewart & Son, of this place, and one of the brightest and best business men in the state. He was a man of fine intellect, considerable literary culture, and possessed a kind heart and genial disposition, and had made hundreds of friends in this county who will, in sympathy with his immediate family, lament his death and deeply sympathize with them in their sad bereavement. He will be carried to Cartersville, Ga., this afternoon, where the funeral will be held.

Lawrenceville, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. M. Rockmore, of Lawrenceville, Ga., died very suddenly while visiting relatives in Atlanta. Her husband, Mr. E. M. Rockmore, expected her to return home via Stone Mountain, but she was unable to do so, and was brought home by the railroad. She was a devoted wife and mother, and her death is a great loss to her family. She will be carried to Cartersville, Ga., this afternoon, where the funeral will be held.

Death of Mrs. Morgan Rawls.

GUYTON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—All Guyton mourns the death of the beloved wife of Colonel Morgan Rawls, which occurred here this morning from a sudden attack of heart failure. She was in her usual health Sunday, and when she retired gave no sign that the end was so near. Mrs. Rawls was a noble Christian lady, and beloved by all. She leaves many children, mostly grown, with a large number of relatives and friends to deplore her death.

right when it was new, but viewed retrospectively, it is about the most substantial thing that I have encountered so far.

There is only one other thing on earth such as a delusive spot, and that is the veteran guide who took part in the battle itself.

Today, along with a party of relic-hunting officers from Camp Chickamauga, I paid a visit to the battlefield of Chickamauga, Snodgrass hill, bloody pond and so forth, which are located several miles north of the encampment.

We had as a guide an old gentleman who owns part of the great battlefield, lives upon it, and who was a participant in the bloody fray.

And I don't want to go there any more. The idea of an impetuous pencil-pusher paying $4 for a vehicle to carry him over a rough road to a battlefield, that he wouldn't have recognized if he had met it in the road! It makes me tired to think of it.

But patriotism, with an undwelling thirst for second-hand glory, prompted me to the trip.

For an hour before we set out my mind was feverish with visions of battle and bloodshed, of gallant charge and stubborn repulse, of the sound of wounded and prayers of dying, of the boom of cannon and rattle of musketry, of the cheering commands of brave leaders, the hurrahs of victory and of tattered colors as they fell to the dust.

I pictured to myself the thrilling scene of the fierce battle, with federals on one side of Chickamauga creek and confederates on the other; I almost saw the desperate charge of the southern boys to drive the yankees from their position on Snodgrass hill, and the bloody slaughter of the former by the entrenched foe on the hill above stirred my blood to dangerous heat. My heart swelled with patriotic emotion as I contemplated the privilege of standing upon the same soil where those heroic souls went down, and the smoke of battle almost rose as a mist before my eyes in love for the heroes of the lost cause.

Al! What a privilege it would be to go there and dwell in sweet meditation upon the awful scenes of those stormy days. How happy and yet how sad the memories that mined about Dragg's brave men as they charged up the hill, and the exultant cries of the foe above as the heroic assailants were forced back in the face of their murderous fire. I saw men falling by hundreds, whole companies vanishing before the roar of musketry and artillery from above, with dead covering the sacred hillside in awful thickness. And when the glaring sun sank behind the hills, as it is in proof at the raging conflict, I could hear the rattle of musketry, and the men drawn off from their vain attack. At night the campfires sparkled before me, and the sharp challenge of sentinels reached my ear as the weary soldiers slept upon their arms. Again I saw the little corps moving about on the field carrying away the wounded and burying the dead, while the moon shone through the forest trees, peacefully watching over the sacred work.

This is one way to write up a visit to a battlefield.

Here is another. But to come down to facts, which are more interesting. Going over a battlefield is regular humbug to any ordinary mortal. There is nothing interesting or picturesque about it. A battlefield looks just like any other sort of field. It grows corn or cotton just the same—no better, no worse—and as I have said no one would recognize it if he ran upon it in broad daylight, unless introduced by a native.

The fact is our party got lost in the woods looking for the battlefield. The blackberries we picked were as good as any others; had neither rebel nor yankee flavor about them, and the red-bugs crawled up our pants as unconcernedly as though we had been playing mumblepeg at a picnic. We saw some bullet holes in the snodgrass and some dead trees; but this latter we were not certain was not the work of lightning or the farmer's ax.

We had a guide along, a native, who said he had been in the battle, but he so frequently referred to the newspaper accounts of the battle to substantiate the explanation that we were dubious as to his exact information. He knew all though, and when some of the colonels ventured to suggest a word or two regarding the position of some of the troops, he looked to have had a fight on his hands.

"We passed by the famous 'Bloody Pond,' which is now nothing but a bog-wallow, and the only thing about it that attracted attention was a pair of old under garments hanging over the fence that passed through the mudhole. There was nothing inspiring or picturesque about it, and the fact that I have invested four bright dollars in battlefield memories will be painful to me many times to come. One dose is sufficient unto my perverted appetite.

One of the members of the party when, after wandering around in the woods an hour or more searching to regain a lost path, finally arrived at Snodgrass hill, sneaked off into the thicket, and shortly afterward came back with half of a rusty old tin plate. For a brief moment he was allowed to proudly show his relic, but his enthusiasm was somewhat dampened when the guide told him he could go back and get us all a piece of plate, as he had plenty buried in convenient places, which he assured us were not too rusty to be cleaned up and made into nice parlor trophies.

But we were all satisfied with the trip—satisfied like the fellow who paid a quarter to be told to always in whittling to cut from him and he would never cut his fingers. The ground we walked over, picked blackberries and got lost on, was to all intents and purposes just as ordinary as it could be. It is sacred and hallowed by the blood of heroes, but you have got to have some one to tell you about it or your patriotic spirit would never take the hint. But the more the satisfaction of having stood somewhere on a great battlefield. That is, we believe we did. We cannot swear to it—and after all that is something hardly worth $4, and a quart of red-bugs, I must confess.

The Grand Change.

Tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock a special train bringing the Second Georgia regiment and the Savannah Volunteer Guard battalion, will arrive at Camp Chickamauga at 12 o'clock. The new troops will go into camp vacated by those now occupying it.

The First regiment and Seventh battalion will break camp early tomorrow morning. Trains for their transportation home will be ready at 7 o'clock.

The Seventh battalion will take their departure several hours earlier than the First regiment.

Colonel C. M. Wiley, of Macon, will be in command during the second week, commencing at 12 o'clock tomorrow, Lieutenant Colonel Huguinin and Garrard, of the Second regiment and Savannah Volunteer Guards battalion respectively. There are three companies in the Savannah Volunteer Guards battalion and the companies in the Second regiment are: The Southern Cadets, Macon Volunteers, Floyd Rifles, Macon Light Infantry, of Macon; Putnam Rifles, of Eatonton; Milledgeville Light Infantry and Baldwin Blues, of Milledgeville; American Light Infantry, of Americus; Putnam Rifles, of Forsyth; Spalding Grays, of Griffin; Eastman Volunteers and Columbus Guards, sixteen companies in all, four more than have been encamped during the first week.

EDWARD M. DURANT.

SECOND GEORGIA REGIMENT.

The Soldiers Leave Macon in Fine Spirits for Chickamauga.

MACON, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—The following companies of the Second Georgia regiment left Macon tonight at 12 o'clock on a special train, via the Central railroad, for Chickamauga: Macon Volunteers, Floyd Rifles, Macon Light Infantry, Putnam Rifles, Baldwin Blues, Perry Rifles, American Light Infantry.

The Southern Cadets left yesterday morning. The Eastman Volunteers passed through Macon today on the East Tennessee, and will go to Chattanooga, and from there to Chickamauga, where they will join the other companies of the regiment. The Columbus Guards have already gone to Chickamauga. The above compose the Second Georgia regiment.

Colonel C. M. Wiley will be in command of the camp during he week, and Lieutenant Colonel Huguinin will have charge of the regiment. Colonel Wiley has issued orders for the soldiers to drill at 5:30 o'clock in the morning. The bugle for rising will sound at 5 o'clock.

The Baldwin Blues.

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—The Baldwin Blues, fifty-five beardless boys, left this evening for Camp Chickamauga to attend the encampment. The company has only been reorganized a month, and is not yet fitted up with dress uniforms.

The Spalding Grays.

GRIFFIN, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—The Spalding Grays leave tomorrow morning on a special train for Chickamauga, where they enter camps under the command of Captain David J. Bailey, Jr. They will leave here about forty strong, accompanied by friends. On yesterday they were marched to the Episcopal church, where they listened to a sermon from their chaplain, the Rev. J. T. Hargrave, who impressed upon them the importance of conducting themselves in a manner that will be conducive to their spiritual welfare and admonished them not to forget that amid pleasures there were duties that they owed their Maker that could not be overlooked. It was a beautiful and characteristic sermon and was listened to with an attention that assured its being beneficial. The company leaves here with the best wishes of all of our citizens for a pleasant time.

An Encampment Prize.

GRIFFIN, Ga., June 22.—[Special.]—Captain John H. White, Sr., has a large oil painting that he won in 1857 at an encampment in Jackson, Ga., while a member of the Griffin Light Guards. While its value may not be great in the eyes of the world, it has, with other souvenirs of ante-war times, could not be purchased at any price.

PASSING THROUGH.

Companies on Their Way to the State Encampment.

The Eastman Volunteers passed through Atlanta yesterday morning on their way to Chickamauga.

There were thirty-one in the company. The officers are: T. J. Buchan, captain; William Clements, first lieutenant; F. W. Armstrong, second lieutenant.

It is a handsome, genial crowd, and although not yet two years old, is one of the most promising companies in the state.

The company was to spend last night in Chattanooga, arriving at Chickamauga this morning.

The other companies of the Second Georgia regiment went by way of Griffin, Carrollton and Rome. They are: The American Light Infantry, Macon Volunteers, Perry Rifles, Baldwin Blues, Putnam Rifles, Macon Light Infantry and Floyd Rifles.

alone 225,000 were shipped during the two years 1821 and 1822. China is the great market to which they were sent, and there the price for each seal was from $4 to $6. As several thousand tons of shipping, chiefly English and American, were at that time employed in fur seal catching, the profits of the early traders were enormous.

Does the reader ask what has become of this extensive and highly remunerative trade? It has been all but annihilated by man's grasping greed, reckless improvidence and wanton cruelty. The "woful seal" has come that "woful seal" has made. Without thought of the future, the misguided hunters persistently killed every seal that came within their reach. Old and young, male and female, were indiscriminately slaughtered.

GUARDS AND CONVICTS IN PITCHED BATTLE.

TERRIBLE AFFAIR AT COLE CITY.

Seven Convicts Make a Desperate Attempt to Escape.

THREE CONVICTS, TWO GUARDS DEAD

A Graphic Description of One of the Most Sensational Affrays in Criminal History.

"Three convicts escaped at Cole City this morning. Two convicts killed and two mortally wounded. Two guards killed. One boss severely wounded."

This is what the governor read in a dispatch handed him as he walked into the capitol yesterday morning.

It was from W. O. Reese, superintendent at the Dade coal mines, to Principal Keeper of the Penitentiary.

The telegram was the one topic of conversation around the capitol all yesterday, but no further particulars were heard there during the day.

The Story of the Affray.—Seven convicts at Cole City made a break for liberty this morning.

A desperate conflict was the result. The convicts were armed and led by one of the worst characters who have ever been in this or any other convict camp.

The affair was one of the most desperate in the history of the Georgia penitentiary.

At 6 o'clock Captain J. M. Moreland, assistant warden at Slope camp, went into the stockade where 200 convicts were confined.

He was accompanied by Jesse Rankin, night guard. After the convicts had been counted and a majority sent off to the coal mines, seven asked to remain behind in order to be furnished with overalls, claiming that they had been in a wet place in the mines.

The seven desperate men made a rush for Captain Moreland's office, where they knew the arms were kept.

By this time the guards were aroused, and a general fusillade ensued, resulting in the death of Pat Rawlin and Jesse Rankin, two guards, and of Sam Green, Wilson Palmer, John Rutherford and Abe Wayman and George Ward.

Jack Landsdowne was killed and his son Seab desperately wounded. The latest advices from the scene are that quiet has been restored.

disturbance at Cole City The Times has the following:

After the first convict made his want known, Mr. Moreland turned to the next one and remarked: "Do you want a pair of overalls, too?" Getting no answer he started to the gate, when Wilson Palmer drew a revolver and told him to hold up his hands.

Moreland was then shoved through the gate, and Palmer, holding his pistol close to Moreland's head, fired, the ball striking him in the right side of the neck and ranging downward.

At the same instant Jesse Rankin was seized and the keys taken from him. One burly negro attempted to hold him, but he struggled manfully, knocking his assailant down, and being unarmed, ran to one of the guards and got a Winchester.

All this occurred almost in a twinkling, and then began a scene that almost beggars description. The seven convicts made a break for Captain Moreland's office, where they expected to get arms and ammunition.

Once inside, they secured one double-barreled shotgun which Wilson Palmer took, battered in the desk and procured a lot of cartridges. By this time the guards were aroused and a regular fusillade began, both from within and without the office.

In the midst of the firing John Landsdowne was shot and instantly killed. Pat Rowland, one of the guards, was the next one killed. He was shot in the breast just above the left nipple and died almost instantly.

He was a native of Ireland and had no settled place of residence. He has a living sister in Louisville. S. H. Landsdowne was the next man hit. He was but slightly hurt, a ball just grazing his breast.

Sam Green then came in for his just deserts at the hands of the guards. He was badly shot in several places, but lived till 4 o'clock. He was sent up for horse stealing.

Wilson Palmer's turn came next. While holding the double-barreled shotgun his right forefinger was taken off, the shot shattering the gun, breaking it in two.

At this juncture the office became too hot for the convicts and they made a break for the outside. Palmer was again shot in many places. He died this afternoon at 3 o'clock. He was a safeblower, and was considered a desperate character.

Jesse Rankin was the next victim of the murderous convicts. He was shot in the bowels and died almost immediately. He was a young man about twenty-two years old, formerly a clerk by all and held in high esteem by the company.

George Ward, convict, was the last one shot. He was hit twice in the top of the head, just above the forehead. His brains oozed out, his eyes protruded, and altogether he was a sickening sight. He lived till near night, when he expired.

While the firing was in progress Abe Wayman, John Rutherford, colored, and S. A. Landsdowne, white, escaped. Landsdowne was recaptured after running about five miles. Both are said to be very desperate characters. The fight was a brief, but most terrific one, lasting but a few moments, during which time the office of the assistant warden was riddled with bullets and buckshot.

CRUSHED AND CUT.

A STREET CAR DRIVER MEETS HIS DEATH.

He Is Horribly Mangled—His Blood and Brains Battered the Track—Death Instantaneous.

C. M. Turner met his death yesterday morning in a peculiarly horrible manner. His neck was broken, his head crushed, bones smashed and his flesh bruised and lacerated.

All done by a horse car. It seems hardly possible that such terrible destruction could be accomplished in the way it was, and certainly such an accident has never before occurred in Atlanta.

Callie Turner, as he is known, is a driver of a horse car of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, beginning his work as such only a few days ago.

The death occurred yesterday morning, at the corner of Pryor and Garnett streets. Up to this point the dummies and the horse cars use the same track. Here they branch off, the horse car line going down Garnett to Pulliam.

At the place of the branching of the two lines is a switch which is turned by the driver of the horse car. This car leaves just before the dummy, the driver turns the switch, drives off onto his track and then places the switch for the dummy.

The drivers, instead of stopping their cars, usually slacken the speed and run ahead, turning the switch as the car approaches.

Yesterday Turner ran ahead to do this. He stopped over and placed his fingers on the switch. Just then the tongue of the car of the horse's hoofs reached him and knocked him prostrate between the rails.

The horse passing over trampled him, and the wheels of the car crossed his body. Not before, however, he had been dragged nearly twenty feet.

The few who saw it rushed to the place, finding Turner lying, bleeding and still. Blood was scattered over his face and body, the earth and the rails. He never moved, and although they reached him in a few seconds he was dead.

He was removed to the sidewalk, and soon afterwards carried to the undertaking establishment of C. H. Swift.

At 1 o'clock Coroner Davis and a jury assembled at Swift's and examined into the causes of the death.

C. S. Miller and C. W. Wade, carpenters, working near by, testified as to the accident. Their testimony agreeing with this story. They measured the distance between the switch and the place where he lay after the accident, and found he had been dragged sixteen feet. Joe Duncan and John Kelly, two boys, also of the accident, and gave evidence of the same nature.

Mr. Patterson, superintendent of the Metropolitan line, stated that the drivers had orders to stop their cars before changing the switch. Mr. Perry Chisholm stated that he lived just at the corner of these streets and daily witnessed the changing of the switch. The dummy following often pushed the horse car so close that it barely had time to get on the Garnett street track. The dummy usually went at a rapid rate down the incline as this place to be able to get up the next heavy grade. This made the changing of the switch a matter of haste, and it was often done by small five or six-year-old boys who were on the street. He thought it extremely dangerous, and had said only the day before that some one would get killed at the place.

EDUCATED NEGROES.

THEY MUST EITHER BE TEACHERS OR PREACHERS.

Chancellor Boggs Talks About the Fields That are Open to Educated Blacks, and the Negro Agricultural College.

Chancellor Boggs came over from Athens yesterday.

"Do you know there are but forty-eight negroes in Georgia taking the regular collegiate course?" said he, while discussing the negro agricultural college. "Then there are 408 whites." And yet there are more colleges for negroes in Georgia than for whites.

"Have you ever thought," he continued, "that there are but few pursuits open for thoroughly educated blacks? They can either teach or preach. There is no other profession for them. If they become doctors their own race will not pay them, and the whites will not have them. As lawyers they find nothing to do. Neither their own race nor the whites will employ them. Thus, as I said, they must either teach or preach, and there is not room for all of them in either or both.

"There is a negro in Augusta who has applied for a professorship of Greek in the agricultural college, but he cannot be employed for that. The law does not specify that the ancient languages shall be taught in the school. Now, this young negro would gladly accept a position as teacher for $800 a year, and he is as competent, perhaps, as any white man in the state. Indeed, he has a thorough knowledge of the language. He first graduated at one of the Georgia colleges, then he went to Brown university at Providence, R. I., where he graduated and took a scholarship upon which he took a year's course at Athens, Greece.

"And just think of it. This young black man is, perhaps, not making more than $300 or $400 a year now. You can get thoroughly competent colored teachers for the smallest salaries.

"Yes, the negro agricultural college is in full operation in Athens, with 100 pupils. It is, however, one located in Athens temporarily. Savannah will, in all probability, be the permanent location. Professor R. E. Wright, a colored man who is temporarily at the head of the school, I find to be thoroughly educated and an admirable teacher.

"Mr. Weidman, Judge Hammond and Professor White went on to Washington a few days ago to see about getting the government appropriation. We want to get it out of the treasury before the 30th of June. I have not heard from them yet, but I hope Secretary Noble will agree to pay Georgia the money and let us divide it as our legislature proposed—two-thirds to the whites and one-third to the blacks. Or else, he will return it over to the whites, as our part of the negro school shall have all the money it requires."

SOCIETY GOSSIP.

The opening ball of Tate Springs hotel on Friday, the 23rd, will be one of the most delightful social events of the summer season. Manager Timberlake has issued handsome invitations to the ball, and the ladies are availing themselves of this opportunity to visit that delightful resort.

On the committees there appear the names of several prominent Atlanta people. The floor committee consists of Messrs. G. R. Tucker, chairman, Frank McChesney, Ernest Briscoe, Clem S. Henry, John McQueen, Tom Cobb Jackson, John Grant, Ed Lewis, Phelan Hawn, H. O. Ewing, W. L. McKee, Louis Jeffries, Sam Hall, Charles Crankshaw, Joseph A. Carr, Frank Tomlinson.

On the reception committee there are: Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Arthur, Mr. and Mrs. William S. Shields, Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Sanford, Mr. and Mrs. Adolph S. Ochs, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. John Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. William D. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Ridley, Mr. and Mrs. William Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Porter.

Mr. and Mrs. Fielding Dillard have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Ida, to Mr. Richard B. Russell. The ceremony will be performed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dillard at Farmville, Oglethorpe county, at 8 o'clock tomorrow morning. Mr. and Mrs. Russell will make Athens their home. Miss Dillard is a charming and accomplished young lady who is greatly beloved by all who know her. There is no young man in Georgia better known or more universally liked than "Dick" Russell, and happy indeed will be the congratulations tendered him and his bride by all who know them.

Miss Mary Lee, who has been the guest of Mrs. Willis Hagan, has returned to her home much to the regret of many friends she has made during her stay in Atlanta.

Miss Eula Ketter is spending the summer at Roswell.

Miss Lily Lohrman is among the visitors to Tallulah Falls.

The members of the E. K. T. Club are requested to meet at the residence of W. H. Kiser, 255 Peachtree street, Wednesday, June 24th. Business in regard to opening dance.

The marriage of Miss Mattie Grady, sister of the late Henry W. Grady, to Mr. W. A. Kennon, of Brunswick, takes place on the 28th of June, in Athens. Mr. Kennon is a successful lumber merchant of Brunswick, which city Mr. and Mrs. Kennon will make their home.

CEDARTOWN, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Professor W. J. Hayes and family, of Atlanta, are spending several weeks with relatives.

Miss F. L. Hill, of Greenville, and Miss Lena Stovall, of Madison, two charming and beautiful young ladies, are visiting Miss Estelle Jones. Miss Ida Smith, one of Cedartown's most popular young ladies, has been quite sick, but is improving rapidly.

Colonel Joe L. Gross is quite sick.

ACWORTH, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—One of the most enjoyable events of the season was a "wacky" party at the beautiful residence of T. H. Gibson, quite a number being present, and all in costumes for the occasion. The evening was greatly enjoyed by all present, a number of games, etc., being participated in. Miss Fanny Mitchell was pronounced queen of the occasion, although her rivals in attire were many. After exhausting the vocabulary of games, plays, etc., the entire crowd dispersed, fully satisfied with the programme for the evening.

Among those present were Misses Maggie Watson, Jennie Boyer, Mattie Mitchell, Fannie Mitchell, Gertrude Hest, Lena Collins, Lizzie Smithson, Sallie Abbott, Lillian Abbott, Flora Williams, Essie Watson, Annie Quillian, Messrs. G. R. Gibson, Claude Baldwin, W. K. Holmes, T. L. Collins, R. A. McLean, W. L. Bennett, George Orr, J. M. York, L. G. Morgan, George White, Smith Grogan, C. A. Brooks.

GRIFIN, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Mr. Charles Wolf, of this city, and Miss Katie Jaeger, of Forsyth, were married at the residence of the bride's brother, Rev. Mr. Davidson, of the Methodist church, officiating. Mr. Wolf is a prosperous grocery merchant of Griffin, well meriting the hand he has won to aid him on life's journey. Miss Jaeger is an excellent lady, with a large circle of friends at Forsyth.

ELLENVILLE, Ga., June 22.—(Special.)—Married, at the residence of Dr. C. H. Smith, this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock, Rev. L. G. Johnson, of the north Alabama conference, assisted by Rev. O. A. Thayer, officiating, Dr. H. S. Manro and Miss Addie Smith. Dr. Manro is a graduate of the University of Maryland, and is full of vim and energy, and is bound to succeed. Miss Addie is a graduate of Wesleyan, and by her sweet disposition endeavored herself not only to her schoolmates, but all that were so fortunate as to be acquainted with her. There were no attendants, and with a happy and prosperous voyage on life's sea.

There is danger in impure blood. There is safety in taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, the great blood purifier. 100 doses one dollar.

Visitors to the Brosnan Motor Sewing Machine factory this afternoon, on account of the machine being broken up, will go out on the A. & W. R. R. to the factory, and leave there at 4:30 p.m.

THEY WILL MEET.

ATLANTA AND MACON WILL CROSS BATS THIS WEEK

For a Purse and the Championship of the State—in the League and Association.

Lovers of baseball will have an opportunity of seeing excellent sport this week.

Yesterday Al Marshall, captain of the Atlanta team, received a reply from Dan Foley, of the Macon team, stating his willingness to meet the local nine.

On Thursday and Friday the two clubs will meet at Piedmont park.

The games will be played for the state championship and $100 a side. It is needless to say that the men will get together their best playing strength.

It is understood that Will Turner, the old Atlanta pitcher, will do the twirling for Macon in the opening game.

The makeup of the teams otherwise has not yet been arranged.

Should the clubs break even in the two contests, the final and deciding game will be played at Macon on July 4th.

The games this week give promise of being interesting and enjoyable. That between the Atlanta and McPhersons on last Thursday was pronounced equal to professional games, and by far the best amateur contest ever seen in this city.

In this instance where the championship, not of a city, but of the entire state, is at stake, and the winner will be richer by $100, the excitement and good quality of ball will doubtless be greater.

With Atlanta Only.

Dan J. Foley, manager of the Macon baseball team, does not want to play the McPherson barracks team.

Manager Foley says the barracks team can't play a little, but in a letter yesterday received he says:

"Macon, Ga., June 21.—Sporting Editor Constitution: Am pleased to learn that Atlanta has been so prompt in the acceptance of my challenge, which was no bluff on my part, but a bona fide challenge to play for the championship of Georgia and for a purse of any amount. As manager of the Macon club I will back them against any and all comers.

Now regarding one Shannon's so-called acceptance of my challenge, which was in no way addressed to him. I have nothing to say, as I don't consider it my duty to accept of a challenge. My pitcher, who was at one time a member of Atlanta Baseball Club, tells me that while he was a member, Atlanta played at least thirty games and McPherson won but one. So under these circumstances I do not think they are in our class or deserve recognition in games for the championship.

DAN J. FOLEY, Manager Macon Baseball Club.

THEY WILL DRILL.

The Companies of the Fourth Battalion Preparing for the Encampment.

The Fourth battalion will go into the encampment in fine trim.

Colonel Calhoun has issued an order under which the four companies—the Gate City Guard, the Atlanta Rifles, the Atlanta Zouaves and the Grady Cadets, forming the battalion—will drill every Wednesday and Friday nights until they leave for Chickamauga.

The drills will take place in front of the old capital building, and are for the purpose of familiarizing the men with dress parade and guard mounting.

The battalion will leave for the encampment at 5:45 p. m. on the 7th of July, via Western and Atlantic railroad.

A meeting of the staff and field officers was held last night at the Gate City Guard armory for the purpose of perfecting all arrangements for going into camp. All the officers and men are taking an active interest and using their best efforts that the Atlanta military may, as they have always been, a credit to the city and state.

WILL NOT COME.

The Grau Opera Company Has Cancelled Its Engagement.

Atlanta will not enjoy a summer season of comic opera.

The Grau company, which was to have begun an engagement at DeGives on July 6th, with its varied repertoire and its large and excellent troupe, will not be here.

The following telegram will explain the tale:

CHARLESTON, S. C., June 22.—L. DeGives, Atlanta, Ga.: Owing to the sudden illness of two of my principal artists, it will be impossible to fill my engagement; must close season; have mailed full particulars.

JULES GRAU.

PRESTON'S HEAD-ACHE cures any headache—nothing else.

Direct from Europe. Our Mr. Stevens, who is now in Europe buying diamonds, has made his first shipment from Amsterdam, which we received through the Atlanta custom house on Friday.

We have some bargains in these stones and will give our customers the benefit of our direct connection with European cutters.

We are the only house in the state who avoid the New York importers' profits and buy our diamonds from first hands. We carry the largest stock of loose and mounted stones to be seen in this market, and intending purchasers will save at least 20 per cent in buying from us. J. F. Stevens & Son, Jewelers.

What is

CASTORIA

Castoria is Dr. Samuel Pitcher's prescription for Infants and Children. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other Narcotic substance. It is a harmless substitute for Paregoric, Drops, Soothing Syrups, and Castor Oil. It is Pleasant. Its guarantee is thirty years' use by Millions of Mothers. Castoria destroys Worms and allays feverishness. Castoria prevents vomiting Sour Curd, cures Diarrhoea and Wind Colic. Castoria relieves teething troubles, cures constipation and flatulency. Castoria assimilates the food, regulates the stomach and bowels, giving healthy and natural sleep. Castoria is the Children's Panacea—the Mother's Friend.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osmond, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kitchin, Conway, Ark.

The Centaur Company, 71 Murray Street, New York City.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."
